

Frantenko Victoria Konstantinovna:

Candidate of Biological Sciences, associate professor, has been teaching special disciplines to IRNTU students studying in the direction of "Food from vegetable raw materials" for 18 years and has been working as a deputy dean at the Institute of High Technologies for 12 years.

She is the author of textbooks, has publications in leading scientific journals, is the author of several patents.

She is the winner of various competitions on innovative food developments, the organizer and founder of a small innovative enterprise developing and producing food products, a participant in the Skolkovo project, has experience in organizing cultural events.